When it comes to flaunting their sexy, naughty sides, K-pop sextet Dal Shabet definitely push the envelope.

In fact, over the last couple of years, so risqué were their dance routines that they have been forced to modify their choreography for television broadcast – not once but twice.

In an e-mail interview with M, Dal Shabet – who will be in town on Saturday for a free concert at The Promontory @ Marina Bay as part of NTU Fest 2015 – hit back at critics who label them "controversial" and "overly provocative".

"I feel sorry for critics with such views," said member Ayoung.

Added Jiyul: "When we perform sexy choreography, it is because it fits our songs and style. Of course, I don't feel good when I hear critical comments."
