STATUTE 3

SCHOOLS AND INSTITUTIONS

1. (1) The University shall have the following Schools:

   The Nanyang Business School (School of Accountancy and Business)
   The School of Applied Science
   The School of Civil and Structural Engineering
   The School of Electrical and Electronic Engineering
   The School of Mechanical and Production Engineering
   The School of Communication Studies

   (2) The University shall have the following Institution which shall not be a division of any School:

       The National Institute of Education

2. The National Institute of Education shall have the following Schools and such Institutions as the Council may by Statute prescribe:

   The School of Education
   The School of Physical Education
   The School of Arts
   The School of Science

3. Each School shall consist of such institutions as the Council, on the recommendation of the Academic Board, may determine.

4. The President shall have power to appoint a person to be head of an Institution (including an institution being a division of a School), and may remove such person from the headship as in his absolute discretion he sees fit.

5. Each School shall consist of -

   (a) the President;

   (b) the heads of institutions in the School;

   (c) whole-time teachers (other than visiting teachers) of any University in the School provided that such teachers (other than professors) of an institution in two or more Schools shall be allocated by resolution of the Academic Board to one School for the purpose of this paragraph of this clause;

   (d) such additional persons, whether officers, staff, teachers or other persons, as may be appointed by the Academic Board, whether permanently, for a fixed period or during any period.
6. A member of a School under paragraph (d) of clause 5 of this Statute may resign his membership by notice in writing to the Registrar.

7. Subject to the Constitution and to this Statute, the Dean of a School shall be appointed for a period of three years.

8. (1) The Dean of a School may resign his office by notice in writing to the Registrar.

(2) A Dean of a School whose term of office has expired or who has resigned shall be eligible for re-appointment.

9. (1) The Dean of a School may recommend to the President that the office of one or more Vice-Deans be instituted in that School.

(2) The Vice-Dean shall be such member of the School as the President may appoint.

(3) Subject to clause 10 of this Statute, the Vice-Dean of a School shall hold office until the next occasion upon which a Dean of that School assumes office.

10. (1) The Vice-Dean of a School may resign his office by notice in writing to the Registrar.

(2) The Vice-Dean of a School whose term of office has expired or who has resigned shall be eligible for re-appointment.

11. The minutes of meetings of each School shall be circulated to the Academic Board.

End of Statute 3