Taking a step for mankind

The world faces a range of challenges that require collective action to address. From climate change to global health crises, we must work together to ensure a sustainable future for all. This week, we focus on several key areas that are critical to advancing the well-being of humanity.

Su Guanming
President
Nanyang Technological University

Tackling the world’s challenges

Nanyang Technological University (NTU) has received a comprehensive program from President Xi Jinping of China, stressing the importance of global collaboration and innovation to address challenges such as climate change, healthcare, and technology development. The President highlighted the need for universities to play a leading role in fostering a culture of innovation and entrepreneurship. He emphasized the importance of higher education in preparing the next generation of leaders who can contribute to solving global challenges.

Jark Zebelius
President
Lee Kuan Yew & Asia Pacific

Global initiatives and partnerships

Acting President Jark Zebelius expressed gratitude for the support received from the Australian government, which has committed to providing a significant financial boost to NTU. This support will enable the university to expand its research capabilities and strengthen its global partnerships. The President underscored the importance of collaboration with other Institutions of Higher Learning, such as the University of Cambridge and Oxford University, to foster knowledge exchange and drive innovation.

Andrew Tay
President
Asia Pacific University

Future of education and innovation

Andrew Tay, the President of Asia Pacific University, emphasized the importance of interdisciplinary approaches in education and research. He highlighted the need for institutions to evolve with the times and adapt to the changing landscape of global challenges. Tay stressed the importance of fostering a culture of innovation, critical thinking, and ethical leadership to prepare students for the future.

---

For the complete list of views from CEIs, go to http://businesstimes.com.sg

---

To subscribe to THE BUSINESS TIMES, please visit http://subscription.business-times.com.sg