Biography

Hyeong-Seok Ko is a professor in the Department of Electrical and Information Engineering at Seoul National University. He is the director of Graphics and Media Lab at the same university, and has been developing physically-based techniques for reproducing clothes, hair, deformable solids, and fluids. He recently started Digital Clothing Center, which is a place for developing clothing simulation technology and disseminating the technology to fashion industry. He has contributed to the computer graphics field with technical papers which were published in SIGGRAPH, Eurographics, Pacific Graphics conferences, as well as in the journals including GMOD, ACM TOG, and IEEE TVCG. Recently, he served for SIGGRAPH Asia 2010 as the Conference Chair, which was held on December 15~18, 2010 in Seoul and attracted more than nine thousand attendees. He received B.A. and M.S. degrees in Computer Science from Seoul National University in 1981 and 1985, respectively. He received a Ph.D. degree in Computer and Information Science from University of Pennsylvania.