Souvenir sales soar after queen's death

Major events surrounding the British royal family often lead to surges in sales for everything from tchotchkes to fine china and gold coins. Jubilees are worth millions in memorabilia sales. Queen Elizabeth II's Thursday death, however, may create a souvenir firestorm.

Marking the end of the longest reign by a British monarch opens up new opportunities for retailers and buyers, experts say. And for those who have collected rare items over the years, her death marks the start of those items' expected rise in value.

Value is also determined by quality and rarity, experts say. A china tea set commemorating one of the queen's jubilees that was mass-produced won't be worth much, for example.

Tribes purchase land near Wounded Knee tragedy site

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. » Two American Indian tribes in South Dakota have joined forces to purchase 40 acres around the Wounded Knee National Historic Landmark, the site of one of the deadliest massacres in U.S. history.

The Oglala Sioux and the Cheyenne River Sioux said the purchase of the land on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation was an act of cooperation to ensure the area was preserved as a sacred site.

More than 200 Native Americans — including children and elderly people — were killed at Wounded Knee in 1890.

The bloodshed marked a seminal moment in the frontier battles the U.S. Army waged against tribes.

UKRAINE CRISIS

Russia confirms big retreat near Kharkiv

Russia's defense ministry on Saturday admitted its forces had retreated from key towns in northeastern Ukraine after a stunning advance by Ukrainian troops.

The Defense Ministry said it had pulled forces out of the village of Balakliya and the strategically crucial city of Izium in the Kharkiv region, after a decision to "regroup" and transfer them to Donetsk in the south.

The retreat represents one of the biggest setbacks for Russia since President Vladimir V. Putin launched the full-scale invasion of Ukraine in February.

Although Russian officials sought to spin the developments, it was clear their troops were retreating to avoid being encircled.

ALABAMA

Black preacher arrested while watering flowers sues

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. » A Black pastor who was arrested by white police officers while watering the flowers of a neighbor who was out of town filed a federal lawsuit alleging the ordeal violated his constitutional rights and caused lingering problems including emotional distress and anxiety.

Michael Jennings filed the lawsuit Friday night against three officers and the central Alabama town of Childersburg, requesting a jury trial and seeking an unspecified amount of money.

Jennings' lawyers held a news conference outside the Birmingham federal courthouse on Saturday to discuss the lawsuit.

TECHNOLOGY

Army has a new suit to solve soldier back pain

Military dreams of an Iron Man exoskeleton suit might be giving way for something simpler: a lightweight wearable to help with back pain.

The new suit, which weighs just three pounds, is a soft harness that soldiers strap around their shoulders and legs. Soldiers can press a button on the suit by their left shoulder, which activates the straps running along their back to help ease the burden when lifting heavy objects like artillery rounds — boxes or guns.

Its name is a mouthful, dubbed the Soldier Assistive Bi-ionic Exosuit for Resupply, or SABER. It is developed by the U.S. Army and Vanderbilt University, and slated to be deployed in the field in 2023.

Robot helps prevent fall injuries to the elderly

Researchers this week unveiled a new robot that can predict and catch seniors before they fall — a potentially major development in caring for the rapidly aging population.

The new device, which looks like a motorized wheelchair, has guard rails that come up to a person's hip and are outfitted with sensors to judge when a person begins to go off balance. Users strap into a harness, and when they are starting to tip, the robot engages it to keep them from falling.

The machine's inventors, from the Nanyang Technological University (NTU) in Singapore, affectionately call the machine "Mr. Bah," a stand-in for its actual name: the mobile robot balance assistant.

VENICE

Poitras documentary wins top prize at film festival

"All the Beauty and the Bloodshed," Laura Poitras's epic documentary about photographer Nan Goldin and her activism against the Sackler family and their art connections has been awarded the Golden Lion for best film at the 79th Venice International Film Festival.

Poitras thanked the festival for recognizing that "documentary is cinema" at the ceremony Saturday evening in Venice.

Cate Blanchett and Colin Farrell won the top acting prizes. Blanchett won for her performance as a renowned conductor in Todd Field's "Tár" and Farrell for playing a man who is broken up by his longtime friend in Martin McDonagh's "The Banshees of Inisherin."
